The advantages for you

Control over your returns

You decide in which cases your customer receives a label for the free return shipment. This way, you have the returns process and costs under control.

Attractive conditions and full transparency over costs

Your customers' involvement in the returns process allows us to offer you attractive prices. Returns only incur costs if they are actually handed at a GLS ParcelShop.

A large number of convenient acceptance points

Your customers can post their returns conveniently at any one of more than 17,000 easily accessible GLS ParcelShops within Europe.

The track and trace on your returns is end-to-end and transparent at all times.

Simple handling

The returns management tool YourGLS provides you with simple, clear and intuitive handling.

YourGLS — your tool for returns management

For returns management of your consignments, the GLS tool YourGLS is available. This allows you to create return labels and send them to your customers electronically. With the tool's integrated track and trace, you have access to all information about your returns, from posting to delivery.

How does the returns process work?

1. Your customer notifies you of the return.
2. You send the return label to your customer.
3. Your customer posts the return — prepaid and free of charge for them — at a GLS ParcelShop.

How do my customers get their return label?

Once you have created the return label in YourGLS, you can send it to your customers:

1. Send electronically via e-mail as a link.
2. Send electronically via e-mail as a PDF document.
3. Print out the physical return label and send it as a document.

With this solution, your parcels from different EU countries can be collected, picked and sent back to Switzerland quickly, easily and affordably as a collective consignment in an outer box.

Fun fact

GLS is considered to be the inventor of the parcel shop in Europe. The first ParcelShop was opened in Germany by GLS back in 1997.
